THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

We remember fourteen years ago, when this writer, very much a stranger in Nevada City, met John O'Neill on Broad Street, and was warmly welcomed. O'Neill said: "My name's Johnny. I know your name's Harley. Anytime I can help you just tell me and I'll do it." Not even in this hospitable little town, we believe, has anyone ever been given a warmer and more friendly welcome than that.

We are well aware that human nature being what it is, full of frailties, does not always maintain the high level of living and let live, implied in John O'Neill's first greeting of another newspaper man. But there was many a time when in need of a little pointer or two on the direction of current events in Nevada City that this writer gladly availed himself of Johnny's help.

If the values of lives are based on their contribution to fellow men, then Johnny O'Neill served for many a year at a wage far below the worth of his services, even though, measured by rule of thumb, they may have been, as it were, the "going wage". If he made enemies, in our humble opinion, they were the kind of enemies every honest man ought to make. And the friends he made for himself and the newspaper he served were innumerable. Friends in any business are its chief asset, and nowhere is this more true than in the newspaper business.

We do not recall to which political party John O'Neill gave his allegiance but we do recall quite vividly that he was a caustic critic of politicians, regardless of party, who sold their constituents down the river or who, because of natural stupidity or for self serving ends, did their country a disservice. John knew how to take their measure and proclaim it to the world. When a newspaper man such as John, calls a spade a spade, the spade is likely to be sharp rapier or a shattering bludgeon. John surely hated chicanery and hyprocrisy.

In his mature years John O'Neill was one of the wheelhorses in every sound endeavor to advance Nevada City's interest. He carried the ball for the Nevada City team often at great expense to his own time and energy. He belonged to practically all the old time lodges and clubs of the city, giving them his unselfish support, doing his part in the many enterprises in which they ere engaged, and serving faithfully interests of his lodge and his city. His was an abounding energy which expressed itself, when all its said, in a love of his fellow men that few of us can hope to attain.

We remember also that when the call to arms came in the first world war John O'Neill was one of the first to enter the armed services, choosing the Navy, where he served for four years. What this meant to a young man in the prime of life, only a veteran of the wars can appraise, but we do feel that war is the real proving ground of patriotism, though of course, it may be demonstrated in other fields, and often is. When discharged from the Navy, John had the rank of yeoman, first class, though as an expert short hand man, he filled ranks far above that classification.

There is something about the word "yeoman" that connotes much in Anglo-Saxon history.. Traditionally the yeomen were archers. How the U.. Navy happens to have a classification of yeomen, a petty officer in charge of stores, probably has its root deep in British naval history. Anyway during the first world war John O'Neill was a yeoman in the navy and did yeoman service for his country.

It is seldom that we feel the sense of loss that we do now in the passing of John O'Neill, fellow newspaper man, good neighbor and good friend of Nevada County. Rarely does any man devote so much of his life to the service of his home town and to his country as did John O'Neill, generous, warm hearted and kind. A good citizens who will long be remembered, went to his rest this week..

DURBROW RECOMMENDS MILLION DOLLAR BOND ISSUE FOR N. I. D.

GRASS VALLEY: Manager William Durbrow has recommended to the board of directors of the Nevada Irrigation District that they authorize a $1,000,000 bond issue primarily for financing the completion of Scott's Flat Dam. He recommends that $800,000 of the bonds, if issued be sold immediately for that construction, and $200,000 be held in reserve for future needs.

Durbrow points out that the completion of Scott's Flat Dam will save the district money, enable the service to be extended, and provide a safeguard for irrigation in western Nevada County against drought. The dam's completion would eliminate the necessity of bringing water from the South Yuba River, Durbrow reported and thus avoid the hazards due to forest ires or heavy snows.

Because of savings affected by the new dam, Durbrow pointed out, it will not be necessary to greatly increase the water rates or the assessments. The N. I. D. is now purchasing water from the P. G. and E. which will not be needed when the dam is put into service.. This saving he said, plus power deductions, would amount to $33,000 a year, based on the average payments made on the past four years, which averaged $32,881.81.

Durbrow states that revenues from sale of domestic water show a steady and healthy growth, and with building now in progress and with new subdivisions being laid out, there will be considerable increase next year in the demand for service.

He indicates that after the contracts with Nevada City and Grass Valley expire there should be a considerable increase in rates. The 25 year contracts expire January 1st, 1958. He said the revenues from the to municipalities were far less than they should be for the serevice rendered.

SOCIETY GETS HISTORICAL ITEMS

NEVADA CITY: The Nevada County Historical Society hopes to open its relic museum at the old fire house on Commercial Street the night of its next meeting, Monday, February 3. The group announces that it is receipt of several items pertaining to Nevada County from Wells Fargo Bank, San Francisco and items from Grass Valley, but are short on Nevada City exhibits. Fred Cassidy has offered a pottery set made in the old Nevada City pottery works and the organization would apprecite hearing from more local residents for old pictures, books, relics, papers pertaining to Nevada County—from 1850-1890.

Elmer Stevens, museum chairman states that the city council has been most generous in making the building available and would appreciate the support of local residents in making it a worth while civic project. Old display cases are needed badly too.

Doris Foley, Nevada City, president of the society, will take charge here next Monday evening at a dinner meeting at the National Hotel. She will introduce Wendell Robie, Auburn business and fraternal leader who will speak on early day California.

WINTER WONDERLAND

A thick frosting of snow covered Nevada City and Grass Valley Monday night, terminating the halcyon period of clear, warm, and dry weather that has existed almost without break since December 2nd. Five and a half inches fell Monday night and Tuesday morning, when Weather Man Max Solaro measured 5 inches on the roof of the City Hall in Nevada City.

Little wind blew at any time, and the snow, sifting silently down without warning,, resulted in many cars being stalled Tuesday morning. Two inches fell Tuesday and there was a light fall Tuesday night, measuring 7-8 of an inch at the City Hall.

Street crews had their hands full shoveling snow from busy intersections and City Superintendent of Streets Herbert Hallet patrolled the streets with the city's big red snow plow. Storekeepers found the clearing away of the sidewalks a necessary addition to their daily chores..

This, the first big snow of the year, brought as much as eighteen inches in one night to higher areas along the Tahoe-Ukiah Highway.

Reports received from Washington Junction, 13 miles east of Nevada City, are that the snow reached a depth of 17 inches there. Superintendent H. T. Bigelow of the State Division of Highways reported Tuesday evening that he had been unable to secure sufficient equipment for clearing the highway beyond Washington Junction and that the road was temporarily closed, but is now open.

Wednesday afternoon Hallet and city street workers engaged in an effort to clear the sides of Broad Street of snow and slush that was stalling many cars which, after parking, were unable to go forwards and backwards. Hallet operated the city snow plow, pushing snow out of the gutters into the middle of the streets where the wheels of automobiles ground it up.

The Califoornia Division of Highways office here reported last evening that the Tahoe Ukiah Highway despite 17 inches of snow over most of the route, is now open to travel but that chains are necessary. It was closed only a short time during the snow storm of Monday night and Tuesday afternoon.

The division reported that so far as known here, the Yuba Pass Highway, beyond Sierra City, Sierra County, is closed.

Vehicle owners of this area should apply at the nearest office of the department which is located at Hills Flat, Grass Valley.

On ordinary applications the only document needed is the 1946 registration card. Fees may be paid in cash over the counter but cash should not be sent by mail. For mail applications use postal, bank or express money orders or certified checks. Personal checks are not accepted.

Rock Throwers

GRASS VALLEY: Three high school freshmen are industriously working to pay off a debt of about $200 each assessed against them by Probation Officer A. W. McGagin, for having a moment of delirious pleasure in throwing rocks through the windows of the Grass Valley Memorial Hospital.

McGagin states that the boys, whose names he refuses to divulge, belong to good families. They destroyed approximately $500 worth of special hospital windows, he stated, before their rock throwing spree subsided.

The windows were secured because of their filtering qualities and the increase, over common glass, of ultra-violet rays. The hospital, which has never been completed, stands on a high promotory east of Grass Valley. It was financed originally by the sale of Idaho Maryland Mines Corporation stock to a group of men associated in the mine management and the late Carl P. Jones.

Constable Art Hammond, who apprehended the trio of rock throwing youngsters asserted he did not know their names.

PRO WRESTLERS BATTLE MONDAY

GRASS VALLEY: Under the auspices of Hague-Thomas-Hegarty American Legion Post No. 130, professional wrestling has returned to Grass Valley. First match will be Monday, February 3rd at 8:30 p. m. in the Veterans Memorial Building here.

Program for this Monday is as follows: Main event, Angelo Cistoldi, the Boston Bad Man, versus Tom Rice of San Francisco, semi-final, Pete Petarson the Southern Gentleman versus Joe Benecassa the Stockton Bad Boy; preliminary, Mickey Casey, the Pride of Dublin, vesus El Stecher of Nebraska..

THREE THIEVES WRECK STOLEN CAR, FLEE

NEVADA CITY: Three men riding in a car which had been stolen two months ago in Sacramento, crashed into the rear end of P. G. and E. Company truck near the Lone Grave seven miles east of this city on the Tahoe Ukiah Highway at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Thomas Boyd, driver of the truck, told Sheriff Richard Hoskins and Captain Joe Blake of the California Highway Patrol, that the car was traveling about 75 miles an hour. The car caromed off the truck and went into the bank across the road. Its was a 1946 Chevrolet sedan, and was ruined..

After a moment or two the three men, ranging in age from 26 to 30, piled out of their car, according to Boyd, and took off on foot toward the South Yuba River. They were trailed by Blake and Hoskins through the light fall of snow. Among the contents of the car which the fleeing trio had attempted to save, which Hoskins and Blake found cached along their trail were two loaded army rifles, a chest of tools weighing 100 pounds, a duplicate set of keys for the car, and a flash light. The men were still at large last evening..

Sheriff Richard Hoskins reported Tuesday morning that two of his deputies patrolled the Tahoe Ukiah Highway between the Five Mile House and Washington junction during the snow storm in expectation that the three men involved in the car crash yesterday morning might return to road and attempt to thumb a ride. The search was continued Tuesday.

WHAT'S DOING IN YOUTH RECREATION

BL JOHN M.. LEWIS

"To be or not to be, that is the question." At the third meeting of the Recreational Council several organizations offered their financial support and many others offered moral backing which, incidentally, is fully as important. There is sufficient enthusiasm and plans are being made for a gala get together after which the recreation program will be officially under way.

The only way to erase existing skepticism is with the successful operation of the program. The only way to keep red tape from strangling the enthusiasm of the youngsters and instigators of the recreation endeavor is to launch the program without unnecessary delay. In as much as the youth phase of the all around recreation program is the most important activity in that age group is underway.

The elementary schools' newly organized popular band led by Jimmy Branson is getting in tune to play for a dance to be held in the near future. Other members of the pre high school group will put on an elementary school review in floor show fashion consisting of a girls choral group, a string quartet, accordian and harmonica players and some high class tap dancing. Soloists wil render vocal rhythm to the evenings array of activities and a good time is guaranteed—be on watch for the publication of the time and place of the youthful display of talent.

Hobby minded citizens of all ages are invited to meet at Seamans Lodge on Pioneer Park Saturday morning at which time a club will be organized. Model building handicraft artists beginners and advanced are urged to attend. Good instruction and club activities worth participating in will soon be under way. This organization is for girls or boys, men or women.

Upon satisfactory organization of the above club a meeting date will be set for the organization of photoghaphy, athletics, archery and many other groups to accommodate all ages and interests.

GRASS VALLEY HIGH SCHOOL

BY DON BURNS

The basketball spotlight will be focused on the Grass Valley high school court this Friday, January 31, when the undefeated Grass Valley Miners will meet the Nevada City Yellowjackets, in the contest that will turn the tables and decide which team shall lead the Sierra Foothill League with first place.

For Grass Valley the smooth quintet of Ali, Daley, Hooper, LaCrosse, and Lippi will start the game..

The B contest holds little fear for the G. V. squad as the G. V. boys have lost but one game, and the Jacket B's have not won a single game this year.

Talented Raymond K. Fong, Chinese-American baritone, presented a well balanced program of American and foreign selections. Fong sang songs in three foreign languages.

Following the swearing in of officers, Miss Maxine Sleeper, journalism instructor and English teacher, presented a $50 bond on behlaf of the Sacramento Bee, to Don Burns for writing a first prize essay in a Bee contest. WET WEATHER SAFETY

Smooth tires and wet pavements are responsible for many wet weather accidents, declares the Public Safety Department. Rain reduces the distance one can see and increases the distance required to stop. A wise motorist will drive slowly during rainy weather and help prevent a needless accident.

NEVADA CITY LONG AGO

FLOY MARGARET REYNOLDS

20 YEARS AGO

One of the important pieces of legislation enacted by the city board of trustees was the closing of the Pine St. bridge to all traffic in excess of 6000 pounds. Loaded street cars, stages and trucks were shaking the structure to pieces and it was feared a serious accident might occur in the event the bridge should go down. All traffic in excess of three tons was to be diverted to Sacramento Street.

Messrs. Stenger, Gracy, Jennings and Meservey attended the joint installation of Siloam Chapter, R. A. M., and Illinoistown Lodge F. and A.. M. at Colfax.

Nevada City was about to embark on an ambitious program of street improvements all the stage routes were to be paved to the city limits. The lower Grass Valley road, the Ukiah-Tahoe road from Broad St. to the east city limits, Boulder Street and the Downieville highway to the west city limits. East Broad St. to the north city limits and Sacramento street, which Trustee Holmes described as being in a very sloppy condition and deep mud from Celio's Plaza Grocery to the depot, were the main arteries of travel to receive consideration. Further than that it was expected that every street in town would be improved with an oil macadam surface..

Ed Muller, one of the pioneers of silk culture was planning to publish a pamphlet on the subject.

The Murchie brothers had started work in their hydraulic claims between Little Deer Creek and the Red Dog road. They were running two hydraulic monitors and had 12 men working. The Murchie quartz mine near Little Deer Creek was also being worked. They had about forty tons of rock, very rich, at the mill but were prevented from hauling by the bad condition of the roads.

The Congregational Social Circle met at the residence of Mrs. S. B. Davenport on Piety Hill.

Sheriff-elect Joseph Perrin appointed Col. A. W. Potter undersheriff.

The sociable of the Methodist Church met at the residence of Mrs. John W. Hinds on Nevada Street.

The roads between this city and Colfax were so bad that freight went up from 37 1-2 cents to $1 per hundred pounds.

A. P. VanSlyke was in town from Indian Springs and brought with him seventeen dozen quail which ne sold at $1.50 per dozen.

50 YEARS AGO

The Royal Whist Club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grissel at their residence on Broad Street. First prizes were won by F. E. Brown and Mrs. James Cairns. George F. Jacobs and Mrs. F. T. Nilon won the second prizes and H. J. Carter and Mrs. J. F. Colley were awarded the booby prizes.

Cottage prayer meetings were to be held at the following homes: Piety Hill, Mr. Roberts; East Broad Street, Mrs. Murchie's; Canada Hill, R. G.. MCCutchan's; and W. H. Valentines; Prospect Hill, Mrs. McKechnies; Lost Hill, Mrs. Murno's; Wet Hill, Mr. Andrews; Gold Flat, Mr. Clemo's; Nevada Street, Mrs. Hathaway's.

GARDEN CLUB

NEVADA CITY: The Nevada City Garden Club meeting January 23 in the home of Mrs. H. L. Small, adopted a resolution opposing water meters for Nevada City. The members voiced the opinion that gardens would be the first to suffer in event of water was metered.

Mrs. Helen Sawyer read an ode to January. Miss Gertrude Goyne read an account of the life of the late John McLaren, who served San Francisco as superintendent of parks.

Mrs. Pauline Stevens displayed three interesting scrap books. Mrs. Small exhibited a charming bouquet of flowering quince which had been coaxed to bloom indoors ahead of season. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Ann Hathaway on the Grass Valley--Nevada City Highway.

ZUGNONI-FREDERICK NUPTIALS

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Sam Hackney Reports on the U.S.A.

Sam Hackney and the missus just returned from a trailer trip around the country. They're tired, and glad to be home, but mighty impressed with what they saw.

As Sam reports—every section has something different; a different way of talking; different tastes in food and drink; different laws and customs. But bigger than all these differences is the American spirit of tolerance that lets us live together in united peace.

"Of course," says Sam, "you run into intolerance from time to time. Individuals who criticize another's right to speak his mind; enjoy a glass of beer; or work at any trade he chooses. But those are the exceptions—and we're even tolerant of them!"

From where I sit, more of us ought to make a trip like the Hackneys — to realize firsthand how America is bigger than its many differences ... how tolerance of those differences is the very thing that makes us strong.

WITH YOUR ASSEMBLYMAN SCOOP THURMAN AT THE STATE CAPITOL

For some reason or other fewer bills are being introduced this session of the legislature and if new legislation continues to be curtailed it will probably be a good thing for everybody. However, there is no certainty that the present ratio will continue.

Up to last Saturday, approximately one half as many pieces of legislation have been introduced as was presented in the 1845 regular session.

Total bills introduced in both the senate and assembly is 1323 contrasted to total of 2501 for the same number of legislative days last session.

Assembly bills total 570, compared to 1609 last session. Senate bills total 453, comared to 892.

Your essemblyman would like to hear from the sportsmen of Nevada County as well as the various sportsmens organizations relative to the bill recently introduced which will extend for another two years the regulatory powers of the State Fish and Game Commission to set seasons and bag limits. We would appreciate hearing from the sportsmen of the district as to their wishes regarding this matter. Please address me in care of the State Assembly, State Capitol, Sacramento, Calif.

Jesus Crosses Racial Boundaries — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John 4:1-42. By Alfred J. Buescher

On His way to Samaria, Jesus met a woman of that city at Jacob's well, and asked her for a drink of water. She was amazed at a Jew talking with a Samaritan, a nation they despised, and also at His knowledge of her life.

The Samaritan woman spoke of a Messiah to come, and Jesus said He was that One, and the woman hastened back to the city to tell of her meeting with Him, of His knowledge of her, and to bring her people to hear Him.

In the meantime the disciples, who had gone into the city to get food, returned and offered Jesus some food, but He said to them, "I have meat to eat that ye know not of," meaning that He had partaken of spiritual food.

The woman of Samaria brought many people back with her and of these some believed in Jesus as the Christ because of the woman's testimony, but more because of His own words.

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 10:43.

INGRATITUDE

An eminent preacher writing in a religious paper once made this remark: "I know there are immense numbers of people to whom the word 'sin' conveys nothing more than a vague notion of being morally imperfect." Theologians complain that this generation is 'lacking in the same sense of sin.'

With all respect to the theologians dare I suggest that ordinary, everyday people are sometimes 'lacking in the sense of sin, b'ecause parsons have narrowed down too much the meaning of the word 'sin'. 'Sin' too often means some breach of the moral code and sometimes just a breach of the ecclesiastical code. Read the Gospel again and you will find that the sins which our Lord most severely condemned were not those which are mostly usually included in our ecclesiastical list. I do not of course, hold any brief or offer any excuse for such sins as adultary, stealing, murder and the like. I do say, however, that these are not sins with which our Lord was most severe. The sins He so ruthlessly condemned we too often regard very lightly, indeed, too often we do not condemn them at all.

I do not wish to make out a list of sins: I think people will do far better to think about the virtues than to cultivate a state of sin. I would certainly include among the most serious sins that of ingratitude if I were to undertake the very unpleasant task of creating a list of sins.

Our Lord Himself was subject to the basest of ingratitude. 'He came into His own and His own received Him not.' there is a touch of bitter irony in His comment: 'A prophet is not without honour save in his own country.' The parable of the wicked husbandman shows how keenly our Lord felt the astonishing ingratitude which the people to whom He came showed. "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do" is Divine, but does not hide the base ingratitude which rendered that petition necessary.

Sins of passion may have the excuse of the frailty of human nature and the strength of temptation. But what excuse is there for the sin of ingratitude? It is all so needless. Surely to be grateful for what we have received should not require much effort. It is just mere thoughtlessness or is it lack of imagination that makes us all fall short in this matter so often?

Ingratitude is a miserable business. Just thoughtlessness? But consider how it hurts people, discourages them, hinders the flow of human kindness, promotes bitterness and despair.

Say "thank you" there's many a hard working person to whom a kindly word of thanks will come like a ray of sunshine on a gloomy day. There's many a struggling worker in the church and out of it to whom the gracious act of recognition will mean renewed strength and courage.

It is one of the most puzzling facts of human nature that some people 'hate to be put under an obligation.' They actually resent it because circumstances have so come that someone else has had to give them a helping hand. If you feel the embarrassment of being under any obligation, discharge it in the right way—by showing your gratitude..

Above all, be grateful for the common gifts we all enjoy. Be grateful for health for means, for the sunshine, for spring, for the flowers. Be grateful for life. After all, it is a wonderful gift. We are all extremely reluctant to part with it. Yet we rarely show gratitude for it. Say thank you." Remember those who are victims of tuberculosis! Be grateful for your good health, support the "March of Dimes."
